Education and Early Experience

Olivia earned her J.D. from the University of Nebraska College of Law. While there, she served as a student attorney in the Estate Planning Clinic, providing estate planning services to senior citizens in rural communities. Olivia also earned valuable in-house experience as an associate for an agricultural technology company, as well as experience with complex real estate and finance transactions at a national firm.

Before law school, Olivia established a strong base in communication and project management through experience in other professional roles that required coordinating across teams and managing multiple projects. She holds a B.A. in Communication, with a minor in Public Relations, from Nebraska Wesleyan University.

Outside the Office

When she is not assisting clients, Olivia likes to travel with her husband and spend time with family and friends.
